MOC SECTION I

SATURDAY, MAY 5, 2018 | 0830 - 1100

JOHN BUHLER RESEARCH CENTRE | 500 - 715 MCDERMOT AVENUE

OVERVIEW

Spend Saturday morning with us at our new jam-packed Breakfast with the Experts series! You will hear from three experts on common infectious disease topics and be guided through practical case studies that address barriers to change in day-to-day practice.

This session will be of interest to family physicians, specialists, allied health and residents.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

By the end of this activity, participants will be able to:

- Initiate a workup for the most common causes of fever in travelers from the tropics and address barriers in knowledge that many practitioners face
- Accurately diagnose and initiate timely management for the most common life threatening causes of fever in returned travelers
- Formulate a comprehensive and timely approach to diagnosing lymphadenopathy
- Identify knowledge barriers that practitioners have in identifying causes of lymphadenopathy
- Explain how practitioners can communicate HPV prevention strategies in discussions with their patients
- Integrate a management plan for patients with HPV infections
